The Nature Of The Beast (By HOLMES ALEXANDER)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 24.—"A bill to combat socialism, balance the economy, save the small businessman, aid the national defense, express abiding love for the majority of voters and for other purposes."

Politicos on both sides of the RFC squabble could use this legislative title. Its language covers arguments now being made to (a) give the RFC a vote of confidence and continue its life or (b) condemn the very existence of such an agency in these times and give it he heavo-ho into oblivion.

heavo-ho into oblivion.

Symington Warns

RFC Administrator Stuart Symington, for instance, recently treated the Senate Banking and Currency committee to some whistle-stop oratory in the defense of his agency. Symington direly warned the Senators that "America is steadily moving toward a concentration of wealth... perilously close to socialism." He halled RFC as an "essential" anti-dote to socialism, national debt and to nearly everything else that's economically wrong and hideous. He accused the enemies of RFC of aiming "another blow at small business, in favor of the trust, the cartel and the monopoly." He linked RFC activities to the sure-fire cause of national preparedness, and he jerked a few to the sure-fire cause of national preparedness, and he jerked a few election-season tears in favor of giving "our neighbor down the street... the loan of a few dollars... when he is caught in economic conditions beyond his control."

ditions beyond his control."

All right, but Symington isn't the only one who can chant these old refrains. They come just as winningly—and much more convincingly—from the people who want to blast RFC off the map.

Senator Byrd, for one, is just as certain as Symington is that the nation has come "perilously close to socialism." But Byrd rightly sees RFC as part of the vicious circle of government paternalism. Senator Bricker is as much against trusts, cartels and monopolies—some after the server of the converge of the property of the political lexicon—as of the most overworked scare-words in the political lexicon—as Symington is. But Bricker correctly believes that the real monopolist of the 1940-50's is Big Government. Practically everybody wants to see "our neighbor" getting working capital, but it must be venture capital—not Federalized grants—if the cause of national prosperity is to be served.

R.F.C. Reforms

Any apology for RFC, in fact, reads remarkably like the vows of an habitual culprit who's just been taken in sin. The sinner's list of good resolution is also a catalogue of his misdeeds and a self-drawn sketch of his character weaknesses. What is a more damning indictment of the RFC than the very list of reforms which Symington promises the Senate committee? From now on, he said, RFC swore to:

"Serve the public interest... conform to the anti-inflation policies... not in any way competing with private banking."

Never again to "bail out other creditors... (finance) luxury hotels... (promote) the sale of intoxicating liquors (or) gambling estab-

Live by the maxim that "where the taxpayers' money is being loaned, the taxpayers have a right to know all the facts.

Protest Too Much That's fine. But it will be a very naive citizen or Senator who believes that Symington or any other administrator can change the nature of the beast. Since 1934 the agency has dished out $4.9 billion in loans to 62.154 businesses. And except during the depression period, every one of these loans has been in direct or indirect competition with the private banking business. RFC is a perfect example of legislation under the title of "The Man Who Came to Dinner." Established to under the title of "The Man Who Came to Dinner." Established to meet a temporary emergency, it has overstayed its welcome, outlasted its usefulness and become a rivet in the nck of free economy. Like Hamlet's guilty mother, RFC doth protest too much when it poses as a bulwark against socialism and a foundation rock for private enter-

e. It is the exact opposite of these claims.

Nobody need doubt Symington's good intentions. As an honest man and skilled administrator, he can police the morals of his staff and frown on political favoritism. But no man is bigger than the organization he heads, and no amount of perfume will make RFC smell like anything but a whale that washed up on the beach in the pression days of long ago. Far better if Symington came to bury this monstrosity, not to praise it, (Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc.)

Last January, few officials thought that turkey production would climb that high. Turkey prices last year were the lowest since 1943, while feed prices and other costs were up.

If stars were still being used to designate the number of men serving their country, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Ammon, New Wilmington would have a three-star flag in their window. Two sons and one grandson are with the Army and the Air Force respectively. One son, Warrant Officer Jack Ammon is still stationed with the Army in Germany. He has seen three years' service overseas and is in Garmisch. In his last letter, he told of having been hunting and of getting a larget deer. The other son, Capt. David Ammon, has been stationed at Camp Campbell, Ky., with the 11th Airborne Division until just re-cently. He is now taking a special course of training at Ft. Benning, Ga. He and his family arrived in this country last September after having been with the occupation troops in Belgium.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 24.— (INS)—Joseph J. McBrayan, re-gional director for the Office of Price Stabilization, emphasized to-day that OPS cellings may not be used to limit trade-in allowances on used cars.

Used car ceilings, based on brand and year, are intended only to limit the amount a dealer may charge when selling a used car, he

McBryan said the announcement was based on an official legal in-terpretation from Washington, which followed complaints that some new-car dealers refused to give allowances in excess of the OPS ceiling applying to the trade-in vehicle in vehicle

The only OPS ceilings that apply in the purchase of a new car, he pointed out, are the ceilings on the new auto itself.

Cleveland Indians Edge Yanks 2-1, Lead Three Games

Lemon Hurls Three Hitter, Dodgers Lose

Mitchell Doubles In Winning Run

Yesterday, he rose to the occa-on. With 36,208 flag-conscious Clevelanders in the stands, Lemon hurled a shattering three-hitter for his 15th win of the year and sixth in a row. The only run the other team got in the course of the Indians' 2 to 1 victory was scored by a man who stole home after twice escaping traps off third base. And since the other team was the New York Yankees, the whole business, to Cleveland's way of thinking, was very gratifying in-

The Boston Red Sox moved to within two games of the Yanks, meanwhile, by clobbering the St Louis Browns 9 to 3. Mel Parnell pitched and batted his way to his 15th victory, registering four sin gles and a walk in five plate appearances.

Bob Porterfield came up with a classy four-hit shutout job at De-troit to pitch the Washington Sen-ators out of their 11-game losing streak. The Nats pounded out 14 hits in winning it, 10 to 0. Porterfield held the Tigers to two scratch singles until the ninth, when they added another two hits the full extractions. in a futile attempt to escape their 12th whitewashing of the cam-

Meanwhile, the Philadelpia A's kept right on picking on the Chi-cago White Sox. Former Chicago players Hank Majeski, Gus Zernial and Dave Philley batted in four of the winners' runs as the A's took their third straight from the Chisox, 6 to 3.

In the National league, there was only one game, and Brooklyn lost it. The league-leading Dodlost it. The league-reading from gers, who had won 14 straight from the Cardinals, collapsed afield and at the plate to hand Max Lanier and the Redbirds a

The loss reduced Brooklyn's margin over the New York Giants to seven and a half games. But baseball observers aren't worried. The only thing that worries them is the unaccountable fact that all games in the majors yesterday were played in the daytime.
